FOREWORD

Good governance has always been the key in the management of progressive institutions. Adherence to it requires the development of efficiency, non-corruptible attitudes and just responsiveness to the society. No institution can substantively provide all the resources for the development of the human capital but surely it can devise efficient processes that are, responsive, transparent and equitable; those deliver as per requirement of the institution and society. Decision-making strategies of internal operations of any organization have proved as pivotal contributor to good governance. Strategies are undertaken to ensure interests of public and employees; in fact, they are designed to be more directional to safeguard their interests. In a nutshell, openness, integrated participation, accountability, effectiveness, and coherence are main facets of good governance.

We, at BUIITEMS, perpetually strive to be a model for the society that vie for institution building with good governance by laying out strategies that foster values of efficiency, non-corruptible attitudes and coherence among stakeholders. Several tasks have already been proven successful while other few are under implementation and more to come in future that protect the interest of our elemental stakeholders, the students, the employees and the public at large.

Societies demand and require effective institutions that help them nurture and cater for their social, economic and civic needs. BUIITEMS have long been directionally focused in capacity building and effective implementation of such programs. These are in response to our local and regional demand for effective service delivery that are really at the core of our own development, being an educational institution.

BUITEMS – Building Leadership

As a vibrant and learning organization, BUITEMS has adapted itself remarkably well to a new role of building communities, economies and leadership. In this role, BUITEMS is actively contributing to socio-economic growth of the nation by generating partnerships with businesses, governments, entrepreneurs and communities at large. BUITEMS views such engagements as an investment strategy central for the development of a just and civil society. The first step in such engagements is the development of individuals with sound ethical values, positive mind set and dedication to nation building. BUITEMS is well cognizant of this fact and strives to develop individuals with balanced personalities and leadership potential. Besides the traditional teaching and learning activities, BUITEMS students are engaged in various co-curricular and extra-curricular activities to develop their leadership skills.

In the lines that follow, some light will be casted on how BUITEMS is doing its part in developing future leaders:

- BUITEMS Student Affairs is very instrumental in arranging high quality co-curricular programs and services in a learning environment that supports students’ holistic growth and acquisition of essential life skills in order to actualize their leadership potential.
- BUITEMS students can become members of various clubs and societies including Community Service Club, Diversity Club, Emergency Preparedness and Response Club, Event Management Club, Literary Club or any other Club of their choice to groom their personalities and emerge as leaders.
- BUITEMS students are actively engaged in the community service. They undertake community service initiatives regularly. Each year, BUITEMS students volunteer in the seven-week ‘Mentoring Program’ organized for The Citizens Foundation School’s Children (TCF School provides education opportunities to less privileged and poor children). Similarly, BUITEMS students, in collaboration with Red Crescent Society Balochistan, work to respond to natural and man-made disasters. They are also involved in assisting SOS Village (an orphanage) and Fatimid Foundation (a blood bank) in their endeavors.

- BUIITEMS is the first public sector university in Pakistan which introduced Work-Study program. This is a financial assistance mechanism whereby students work for certain hours in a lab or with a teacher and in return, their tuition fee is waived off. Students get hands-on professional experience and develop as groomed professionals at the end of their study program.
- The Career Services Office at BUIITEMS provides students on-going guidance and counseling regarding their academic and professional careers. This Office assists students in finding internships and jobs in reputable national and international organizations. Moreover workshops on communication skills, resume writing and interviewing skills give students an advantage when they enter their professional lives.

- BUIITEMS promotes and maintains a culture of innovation and entrepreneurship in order to encourage its graduates to innovate and be a job-creator rather than a job-seeker. BUIITEMS Business Incubation and Entrepreneurship Center (BBIEC) is one such place where graduates with brilliant business ideas are being provided a fully-furnished and well-equipped office along with an ongoing technical support. BUIITEMS graduates, thus, are contributing to the economic development of the region as being job creators.

These are just few examples of the way students' leadership skills are developed at BUIITEMS. Robert Greenleaf in his 1977 book, Servant Leadership: A Journey in to the Nature of Legitimate Power and Greatness, wrote: "The best test of leadership is: do those served grow as persons; do they, while being served, become healthier, wiser, freer, more autonomous, more likely themselves to become leaders?" This is what BUIITEMS team is doing. Inspired and motivated by the visionary leadership of Vice Chancellor Ahmed Farooq Bazai, each member of BUIITEMS team is actively engaged in developing leaders ready to take on key leadership positions and make this country and region a more prosperous place.

SCHEMA AS PREDICTOR OF DEPRSSION

The Book focuses on the role of individual's schema in generating the depression among the adolescents. A purposive sample of 100 adolescents male and female with age range of 10 to 25 years was taken from nonclinical population. The Beck Depression Inventory II and Young Schema Questionnaire (Short Form) were administered on the subjects to determine the level of depression stimulated by schema. In addition to these measures the Demographic Information sheet was also provided to subjects to get the background information from them. Data was analyzed by applying Pearson Product Moment Correlation and Regression analysis. The results clearly supported the hypotheses that the disorganized or false schemas and beliefs lead to depression. University Advancement & Alumni Relations Office

The Year 2013 was a productive year for BUIITEMS in terms of the collaboration and fundraising. Following are the main highlights in this regard:

JICA Project

The JICA sponsored mega project 'in-country training and provision of engineering equipment' was approved by CDWP and its implementation started accordingly. In September, an agreement signing ceremony was held at HEC Islamabad where JICA Chief Mr. Kawasaki and Vice Chancellor BUIITEMS, Ahmed Farooq Bazai formally signed an agreement for the implementation of the project 'In-country Training and Provision of Engineering Equipment to BUIITEMS.' With a financial worth of PKR 212 million, the JICA Project entails the following core areas:

- Technical assistance in the form of provision of engineering equipment
- Strengthening of Faculty of Engineering for accreditation of Washington Accord
- Masters scholarship for Engineering faculty
- Strengthening of Career Services Office

This project will mark a new beginning of quality engineering education not only in Balochistan but also in the entire region. BUIITEMS, with the technical support of JICA, will be a forerunner in revolutionizing the higher education spectrum to bring it at par with international standards.

PPL Project

Pakistan Petroleum Limited (PPL) approved a project worth of PKR 25 million for strengthening of P&G Engineering Labs. This is another project that will pave way to the development of quality Petroleum and Gas Engineers not only for Balochistan and the country but for the whole region.

BUITEMS Endowment Fund

ENDOWMENT FUND

Another landmark step taken in the Year 2013 was the establishment of BUITEMS Endowment Fund. The mission of this Fund is to provide resources to further the mission of BUITEMS now and in the future. A comprehensive Endowment Policy was designed which prescribes the Endowment Committee, Board of Trustees and other rules & regulations. The Policy was later on approved by the BUITEMS Syndicate. Various donors have already been approached to raise seed money for the Endowment.

Alumni Relations

BUITEMS Alumni relations are of great importance. To achieve the goal of maintaining a life-long relationship with BUITEMS alumni, the Directorate of UA & FA has developed a comprehensive database of BUITEMS Alumni.

We keep our alumni informed through different media like Newsletters, Annual Reports, e-mails and a Facebook group 'BUITEMS Alumni Association'. BUITEMS has so far produced more than 4000 graduates in different disciplines.

Our alumni are currently serving more than 210 organizations worldwide.

Assessment Manager at the Pakistan Reading Project (PRP)

Looking back at the years gone by I often contemplate at the struggles and hardships one may have to face before the ominous clouds of uncertainty are sidelined into obscurity. When I started my MBA with specialization in Human Recourse Management at BUIITEMS, I did not have any idea where my destiny would take me. BUIITEMS proved to be a play ground where I could experience and explore myself more than anything. I always believed in myself to be a confident and hardworking person. And it is this belief that led me to take part in many competitions, National Games, Youth Initiatives, and advocating for the rights of women and children on many forums. During my MBA I was an intern at Tameer-e-Khalaq Foundation; a local NGO. With my hard work and management skills I soon secured a permanent position at a well reputed development organization, Innovative Development Organization (IDO) as Research and Documentation Officer. My passion and dedication towards work never diminished and in a matter of few months I got an offer from a national level development organization based in Islamabad, National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA) as Documentation Officer after successfully qualifying the test and interview. BUIITEMS gave me the professional exposure I required to secure better and challenging positions and the confidence that I could actively perform to support my society as a whole. NDMA proved to be a unique and a learning experience for me and helped me realize and polish my abilities and capabilities. My eight months at NDMA were followed by a more challenging and demanding job. IDO offered me a position of leading an important and potentially viable project on education. The latter, called the Balochistan Education Program, funded by Save the Children was spearheaded successfully by me as Project Coordinator for almost one and a half year. This demanding position provided me the opportunity to work closely with children and the education department of Balochistan. It was an opportunity to bring a meaningful change in terms of delivery of quality education to the children of Balochistan. I am currently dispensing my duties as Assessment Manager at the Pakistan Reading Project (PRP) funded by US Aid. I am positive that I am getting closer to my ambition of doing something significant to improve the status of education in Balochistan. I realize that the road to glory is filled with thorns but I have the courage to overcome them and I will not baulk at the face of hardships.

Masooma Qurban

Media Officer, UNICEF Balochistan

Education can create opportunities, and enhance skills & qualities of individuals, irrespective of any distinction, and a good institution plays an important role in providing individuals with tools to materialise their ideas. The idea to get education from BUIITEMS, for me was a way to achieve my desired goals, a better career, have hope, and fulfil my dreams. I have done my MBA from BUIITEMS. During my studies, I got the opportunity to work as an intern at National Telecommunication Corporations (NTC) Karachi to fulfil the course requirement. Luckily after completing my MBA I was offered a job in the same organization.

Later, I joined Samaa TV as Assistant Producer. There I mostly worked in Health and Education sector as I think these are the areas that really need attention of policy makers. I submitted one of my reports on Polio disease in National Health Journalists Award 2010 from Balochistan and got 3rd position in the category “Best Rising Star of the Year”. This was the time when the doors of success opened for me and I got the recognition, acknowledgement and further national and international opportunities to polish my skills.

I was offered a promising position in UNICEF Balochistan on the basis of my qualification and experience. I am currently working as Media Officer, UNICEF Balochistan for one of the largest public health initiative – Global Polio Eradication Initiative.

My aim is to save the children of Pakistan, specifically 2.2 million children of Balochistan from a lifelong disability due to crippling polio disease. I want to assure them with a healthy future so that they can serve for the betterment of our country.
